COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

I attended the conference on water pollution of the Androscoggin in Portland on Tuesday of this week. Actually it wasn't a conference because the Maine Water Improvement Commission, the New Hampshire Water Pollution Commission and the New England Interstate Water Pollution Control Commission refused to participate as members of the conference. The two states and the Interstate Commission feel that the federal government has no right to call a conference regarding the enforcement of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. The two states and the Interstate Commission have been working on the abatement of interstate water pollution and have plans for classification and improvement of the Androscoggin River.

There were many legal points that were brought up by each side to back their position. The question will probably go to court before the issue is settled.

The states have legislation concerning the abatement of water pollution and have been working with the interstate commission to enforce their laws at what they consider a practical time schedule. This schedule doesn't concern the Androscoggin for two to four years. From a town standpoint, this would seem better than to have to start sooner.

The town of Bethel contributes a very small amount to the overall pollution of the river. The town could use the next couple of years to determine the extent of pollution caused by the town and study possible ways to correct the situation to acceptable standards. There is more than one answer to the problem from the town's point of view and all possibilities should be considered to determine the best for the town.

"MARCH OF DIMES" GAME NETS $108.33

The "March of Dimes" game between the Gould Academy Varsity and the Bethel Town Team, sponsored by the Student Activities Council, proved a great success both from the standpoint of monetary gains for a worthy cause and enjoyment for the many fans who turned out for the game.

Although the Academy team led 22-20 at the end of the third period, they could not contain the more experienced town team which rallied for a 17 to 6 advantage in the final stanza, winning 37-29.

Paul Imhof of the Academy was the high point man with 12 points. Ronnie Kendall led the Townies with 8.

Bethel to Decide on High School Buses

The voters of Bethel will decide at Town Meeting whether to provide bus transportation to Gould Academy and Woodstock High School. This article has been submitted by the School Committee at the request of a group of parents living in East Bethel. The committee is passing the article on without recommendation, and will act in accordance with the majority vote.

If passed, the Town will provide transportation from all parts of the Town to secondary as well as elementary school. Elementary transportation now costs $16,250 per year. The School Committee estimates that transportation to both secondary schools would cost an additional $14,000 per year. A separate article will see whether the Town will vote to raise $6,000 of this amount for September through December 1963, to be added to the 1963 budget. It is presumed that if the article passes this year the $14,000 would be automatically added to future school budgets. The State reimburses approximately half of the Town's educational expenses, including transportation.

-Mrs. Beattie Harvey, Correspondent-

A son, Scott Clinton, was born to Mrs. Jean Bennett of Rangeley on January 29th at the Farmington Memorial Hospital. Jean is the wife of Rolfe Bennett formerly of Wilson's Mills.

DOG OWNERS REMINDED OF LAW DESIGNED TO PROTECT DEER

Dog-owners are reminded that they should keep their dogs from roaming in deer-habitat areas during winter months. Maine law specifically prohibits allowing dogs to roam at large during February, March, and April in areas where there are deer.

Chief Warden Maynard F. Marsh, Maine Fish and Game Dept., says that in some parts of the State, dogs are already busy killing and mangling deer. "Fortunately," he adds, "we have not yet experienced as severe crust conditions as we had last winter."

In early 1962, heavy crusts—which support a dog but make deer bog down quickly—led to an unusually heavy toll

Supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Cross Jr. Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Whitman, Bryant Pond, and of white-tails. A similar crust condition, generally experienced every spring in Maine, will again leave deer open to attack by free-running dogs.

Motorized snow-sleds now enable fish and game wardens to cover more territory more effectively. Wardens may dispose of any dog they catch chasing deer, but they would rather see the problem solved by having owners realize the situation and keep their dogs under control, as the law directs.

Many dog owners are unaware that their pets chase deer. But the fact is that dogs have a natural instinct for the chase, and even a friendly pet can turn into a vicious creature when he spots a deer.

How to cut oil bills

1. Close off unused rooms. Shut off radiators and registers, and keep doors closed.

2. Use a heating oil that helps guard against deposit build-up in burner passages. In a well adjusted clean burner, Shell Heating Oil can reduce fuel consumption significantly.

Time to Think of This Year's Tax

It is now the usual time of the year to consider town affairs, though too many of us feel needlessly helpless in reaching a happy decision next month.

Figures submitted by town and school officials, or budget committees, are not to be considered as final. Each department has its "needs." The degree of necessity is up to the voters.

Town, state and federal government would be better off if those in direct charge could see clearly the difference between needs and necessities. Families have the same problems. With many of us still bruised by last year's tax payments, let's take a good look. It is still a question of what we can afford, and local town meetings are a privilege which we still enjoy.

During the next three weeks we will hear a lot about desired appropriations, all of which are not likely to pass. Lower taxes are not at all likely unless the assessors find unexpected valuation in April.

So it may be good economy to think, listen and talk it over. Such money as you may save will be your own.

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMA

(Modern Hair Styles)

The young ladies nowadays—and sometimes their mothers, too—are showing up at the office, at school or at a party with a variety of elaborate new hair styles that the men often find somewhat baffling.

Most of the new puffed up hairdos depend on roughing, back-combing or teasing the hair to give added body to the newest style. Some other names for these techniques are rattling and lacing.

Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association, reports that roughing or back-combing does not damage the hair if it is done properly and if the hair is in good condition; that is, if it is naturally lustrous and the fibers are strong and springy.

However, these operations should be carried out gently and not too frequently. This will avoid roughening of the hair fiber's surface and undue tangling, especially on dry, brittle or easy-to-break hair.

These operations tend to tangle the hair quite badly. Tangled hair is difficult to comb, and somewhat greater than normal fiber breakage may occur unless care is exercised.

And when mild tangles of the puffed up hair-do and decides to return to normal, begin combing at the ends and then gradually progress toward the scalp to remove the tangles by gentle combing. Actually, brushing is more effective than combing for removing the tangles and is easier on the hair.

GOOD HEALTH HINTS

ALCOHOLISM
Despite the millions of words written and spoken about alcoholism the past few years, the problem remains one of our most serious both medically and sociologically. There are roughly 4,000,000 problem drinkers in the United States and about one of every 15 adult drinkers stands a good chance of becoming an alcoholic.

An alcoholic is one who has lost all control of his drinking habits. In this regard, he is sick and his problem is a medical one which can best be handled by a local physician who can view the patient and his problems in his own community.

What causes a person to become an alcoholic is highly individual and usually a mixture of the person's own personality and real or imagined problems. The disease usually progresses through several stages—from an occasional drink to relieve anxiety, to greater reliance on alcohol for more continual relief, to complete loss of self control despite guilt feelings and strong social pressures.

One of the most difficult things in treating an alcoholic is getting him to admit he has a drinking problem. He usually will vehemently deny he is an alcoholic and give as proof the fact he has stopped drinking for lengthy periods previously.

What he refuses to admit to himself is that for him, one drink always leads to another. This is hard for him to accept and understand because so often he is aware of friends who are heavy social drinkers but have no alcoholic tendencies that he cannot believe he is any different.

If an alcoholic comes to a physician at the insistence of his wife or family, success in treating him is doubtful. He must admit his problem to himself and desperately want to do something about it before medical care can be of real help. This is one of the basic values he can achieve by association with Alcoholics Anonymous.

Treating alcoholism is difficult and individual. The physician must have intimate knowledge of the patient's history. With this knowledge he often can help the person to avoid or learn to live with the factors which led to alcoholism.

The physician also will help restore the patient's health. Most chronic alcoholics are badly undernourished because they have allowed alcohol to provide the bulk of their calories. A diet low in fat and high in protein and carbohydrate, plus vitamin and mineral supplements, usually is in order.

At the same time, certain drugs are useful in helping the patient fight his craving for alcohol until he is capable of remaining "dry" by himself, and fully understands that total abstinence is his only hope. Alcoholism is curable but demands great patient cooperation and desire. The physician's primary job is to help reeducate the alcoholic so that he can face everyday difficulties without turning to alcohol and learn to endure those problems which cannot be avoided.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

DRIFTED BEAUTY

There are differing opinions concerning snow, and most of them have been expressed with considerable vehemence. The skiers want snow and plenty of it; bare slopes and uplands are a disappointment. Many middle-aged citizens prefer to see brown fields and frost-bleached meadows. Civic authorities must fight big storms and taxpayers must pay the bills.

If a light, dry snow arrives and the wind swirls it into deep drifts, there is beauty waiting for him who seeks it when the storm has blown itself out. Sculptured heaps of whiteness lie along the roadsides, against fences and walls and in the pasture lanes.

Snow is never pure white. In the morning and late afternoon when the sun's rays slant into the drifts, one can see many shades of soft color. Look into the drifts by a boulder, or into the drifts overhanging a creek; walk a country road where the banks are high and the drifts are deep.

Who can say he has seen all the colors brought to birth by the rays? The golden sun in a washed-blue sky is the source of wondrous beauty. Stand a few yards from a sculptured drift and if the rays are from the right angle, you will see glowing pink and purples, rich browns and reds, shades of blue, and gun-metal grays that glow with the fire of eternity.

It is only in the morning and in the late afternoon that one can see the fullness of drifted beauty. But if conditions are right, he who is fortunate can stand for a few poignant minutes and watch some of Earth's everlasting glory.

20 SECONDS with the NAZARENE

Christ declared, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you." We call this returning good for evil, or the philosophy of the Golden Rule.

Question—How long has it been since you put that principle to the test? (Quotation from Jesus, Matthew 5:44)

Rev. Patnode Bethel Church of the Nazarene

Thursday, February 7

Read Romans 10:1-11

Whatever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope.
(Romans 15:4)

In James M. Barrie's book
The Window in Thrums, we read about the crippled old Scotswoman who sat at her window in Thrums. Her favorite text was a verse in the sixteenth chapter of Genesis. She turned to it often. She said, "I read from the beginning of the chapter, but when I come to
'Thou God seest me, I stop....
I let the book lie in my lap,
for once a body's sure of that,
they're sure of all.'"

PRAYER: O God, set free our souls from all doubt and fear so that we may follow the guidance given to us in Thy Holy Word. Help us amid the storm and stress of life to find that peace which Thou alone canst give. Through Jesus Christ, our Redeemer.
Amen.

The money you're putting into U. S. Savings Bonds today will probably some day go into college tuition, or new furniture, or the walls of a new home.

Until you need it, this money is earmarked for a very important job. And you can be sure it isn't building a 27-mile barrier of brick, barbed wire, and concrete.

Every dollar you save with Uncle Sam goes directly into keeping our country strong, with its affairs in good order, so that we can carry on the struggle for freedom—at remote outposts, at conference tables, in outer space.

Tens of millions of American families have accumulated $45 billion in E and H Bonds—part of our strength as individuals. And part of the strength of the nation.

Start putting part of your savings to work for your country while it works for you. Buy U. S. Savings Bonds at your bank regularly or where you work, and see if you don't feel good about it.

Quick facts about U. S. Savings Bonds

1. You get $4 back for every $5 when your Bonds mature.
2. Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, stolen, or destroyed.
3. You can get your money anytime.
4. You can save automatically on Payroll Savings.

Four different ways to make going more fun than getting there

You can see why one of America's favorite outdoor sports is driving Chevrolet, with four entirely different kinds of cars to choose from. There's the Jet-smooth Chevrolet, about as luxurious as you can go without going overboard in price; the low-cost Chevy II, a good-looking car that would send any family packing; another family favorite, the sporty Corvair, whose rear-engine traction will make you think that ice and snow are kid stuff; and for pure adventure, America's only sports car, Corvette—now in two all-new versions with looks that can stop traffic like a rush-hour blizzard. Picked your favorite already? The next thing is to take the wheel at your Chevrolet dealer's. If that doesn't have you thinking of places to go, maybe you'd rather just have a ball around town!

CAPITOL COMMENTS

CONGRESSMAN
CLIFFORD G. MCINTIRE
MAINE, SECOND DISTRICT

Congress is rolling up its sleeves and getting down to some serious study with respect to various legislative items.

One such item is a cotton bill — for cotton is in trouble, both from the grower and the buyer standpoints. Cotton growers find their product running into stiff competition from other fibers, both natural and synthetic, with an unrealistic price support level aggravating rather than helping the situation.

Cotton buyers also are operating at a decided disadvantage for, because of the unrealistic price support program for cotton, they are required to pay 8½ cents more per pound of American cotton than are foreign buyers of the same cotton. This comes about because our domestic buyers of cotton are required to buy at the American price, which is bolstered by price supports, while foreign buyers make purchases of U. S. cotton at the lower world price.

I have long argued that this gross inequity under the two-price program must be eliminated in the interest of our American textile mills.

Hearings are presently being conducted by the House Committee on Agriculture with respect to legislation designed to provide a solution for the cotton problem.

One approach being given serious consideration is a certificate program that would permit American buyers to receive cotton for the same price as foreign purchasers. At the same time, cotton growers would be permitted to expand their cotton production above the present acreage allotments, receiving premium price support for the base acreage and the lower price of the normal market for the expanded portion.

In my opinion, a more satisfactory approach to the problem would be one that saw a gradual reduction of the price support levels for cotton in company with an increase in basic acreage allotments. Such a program could be initiated by lowering the price support for cotton from the present level of 32.47 cents per pound to 30 cents in 1963, and then to 28 cents per pound in 1964. Import quotas on finished cotton goods should also be imposed.

A program operating along these lines would protect the income of the cotton grower and, at the same time, it would permit cotton to compete on a favorable price basis in the fabric market.

Of great importance, too, is the fact that our domestic textile mills would be able to buy American cotton at prices that compared favorably with those at which it was made available to foreign buyers.

Because of my keen interest in our textile mills in Maine, I shall be following legislative developments in this area very closely.

Considerable confusion is hanging heavy over the President's tax program as recommended to the Congress.

There is some uncertainty as to the precise design and intent of those proposals that have been offered for the purpose of taking up the slack in income that would result from tax deductions.

I have received in my Congressional office numerous letters and telephone calls registering concern about these reform proposals of the President's tax program. Several of my correspondents contend that the recommended reform for estate taxes would penalize the beneficiaries of a given estate. This would, they say, occur through a capital gains tax that would be imposed on the difference between the estate's cost and its market value at the time of the owner's death.

This represents, of course, a sharp departure from the present treatment accorded estates and one not being viewed very enthusiastically by many of our taxpayers.

In addition, the President recommends that tax payment schedules for corporations be made more current than at present. This would have the effect of accelerating tax payments for corporations, and many small companies with limited capital reserves are complaining that this type of acceleration would disrupt their plans for business expansion and development.

Other reform sections over which hang a big question mark are proposals to limit tax deductions, repeal the dividend credit and exclusion, tighten rules for claiming capital gains benefits, tax gains from stock options as ordinary income, and tax employees on the employer's contribution for group life insurance premiums.

The shape of these reform proposals will be molded by the Congress after all their aspects have been seriously studied and reviewed.

Deaths: Mrs. Carrie Lane, Mrs. Bertha Libby, Marcellus Littlehale, Mrs. Cassie Gay, Mrs. Robert Damon.

40 YEARS AGO

MRS. ESTELLA GOODRIDGE

Mrs. Estella Goodridge passed away Monday afternoon Feb. 4 at the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Kneeland, West Bethel, after a brief illness.

She was born in Mason, Sept. 15, 1875, and was the daughter of Ebenezer and Mary Bell Scribner. In August 1903 she married Wallace Goodridge of Gorham, N. H., who was a Civil War veteran, and they operated a grocery store for some time in that town. Later they moved to West Bethel. After Mr. Goodridge's death about 40 years ago, she conducted a tourist home for several years.

Mrs. Goodridge was the last of the Civil War veterans' widows in this part of the country. She will always be remembered by her family for her love and devotion, and by her neighbors and many friends as a kindly, sympathetic person ever ready to help in sickness or need. Her pleasant smile and words of cheer will linger long in our memory.
